

Museum of Natural History Weekly Buzzz... (August 14-20, 2010)

Job Announcement: The Museum is now seeking an Executive Director to be an advocate and ambassador for the Museum and guide the Museum into the next chapter of its development. The deadline to apply is September 30, 2010. If you or someone you know is interested in this position, please follow this link to the job announcement:

<http://www.santacruz museums.org/getinvolved/Employment.htm>

Bones: An Inside Look at Nature We're planning a fascinating look at the inner lives of animals, using interactive exhibits and impressive specimens that will be on public display for the first time. If you would like to help bring this incredible new exhibit to the Museum, please consider becoming a sponsor. Sponsorship levels start at just $50:

<http://www.santacruz museums.org/documents/BonesFundraising.pdf>

Pilkington Creek Update Our first work day for the Pilkington Creek Cleanup Project was a huge success last weekend. Thanks to volunteers from the local neighborhood, California Native Plant Society, the Museum, and even some visitors from out of town, an impressive amount of ivy was removed from the redwood grove at the north end of Tyrrell Park, near Forbes Street. The next work day is this Saturday, August 21. Meet near the whale sculpture at 10am.

<http://santacruz museums.org/whatsnew/events/PilkingtonCreekCleanup.htm>

Thank You Outdoor World! This fall, students participating in the Museum's Neary Lagoon Walk will get to enjoy brand new binoculars, thanks to a generous 20% discount provided by Outdoor World. Tours will be starting again in September, so be sure to say hi if you see our docents out at the lagoon.

